MITCHELL SPEAKS TO LUTHERAN MEN

Likens Man's Life Here to Work in Garden Plot---A Great Talk.

The Rev. Charles Baird Mitchell, Episcopal clergyman, last evening delivered a very able heart to heart talk to the Social Brotherhood of Grace Lutheran Church, which was of an extemporaneous character. His experience has taught him that a message is received with greater effectiveness this way than any other, he explained before opening his address. His talk dwelt on the theme of "Back to Nature," as nature has been declared to be "the vicar of Ahnighty God." He likened man's estate in this world to a garden plot. Every man must develop his

The law of heredity, the law of environment and the law of God were discussed. He stressed the meaning of the law of God as man cooperating with God and cited this in the wonders accomplished by Luther Burbank in producing seed-less grapes, stoneless plumbs and thornless cacti. In passing he reserved to the rising up of Martin Luther and the spreading of the gossel to the world.

"Frequently we complain of the weeds in our garden, but that is a good sign. If weeds did not grow in your garden nothing else would including the beautiful flowers." He warned all to cultivate their garden and not worry about the other fellow's your head on the other fellow's your head on the other fellow's artiliary. There's too.
